WEEKLY WORD PATTERN: Latin Suffixes -arium, -ary, -orium, -ory = "place, room"

Suggested words for practice: aquarium, terrarium, library, sanctuary, factory, laboratory, auditorium

Find at least five new words with this week's base by searching online or in a magazine or newspaper.	Write sentences using at least five words with this week's base. Remember that the sentences should show the meaning of the words.
Choose at least three words and create a cartoon or illustration to show their meanings.	Write as many words as you can in 3 minutes that contain this week's base.	Create a word web using this week's base.
Choose 3 words with this week's base. Use each word to complete a sentence that begins with "I would..." Then, use the same word to complete the sentence, "I wouldn't ever..." (Ex: I would like to know how a tornado is formed. I wouldn't want to get caught in a tornado .)

WRITING PROMPTS

Think back to when you were very young. Describe your earliest memory.	Would you rather have purple hair or be bald? Why?	What does it mean to have "good manners"? Is having "good manners" important? Why or why not?	What cartoon character, book character, or TV character is most like you? How?
What is your favorite board game? How do you play it? Why do you like it so much?	Imagine you have won an award for a particular accomplishment. Write the speech you would give when receiving your award.	Would you rather have a third arm or a third eye? Why?	Do you think it's important to dress a certain way? Why or why not?
